

This week we will determine the density of basalt rock, and understand why ships can stay on the surface of water, even though the steel out of which ships are made is much denser than water.

1. Who was Archimedes and what does he have to do with Eureka? You might need to check the internet for this question...